Mach hi, bi Gode, hi sal hu honen.'
'Heere,' seit hi, 'laet hu castyen!

So moete mi God vermalendyen of mi Reynaert so sal honen,
inne saelt hem wederlonen,
dat hijs an den dulsten zi.
Nu ne zorghet niet om mi.'

Nu neemt hi orlof ende hi sal naken
Daer hi zeere sal mesraken!

Nu es Brune up die vaert ende hevet in ziere herten onwaert ende het dochte hem overdaet. dat yement soude sijn so quaet 500 ende dat hem Reynaert hoenen soude. Dort doncker van eenen woude quam hi gheloepen dor eene wostine daer Reynaert hadde de pade sine ghesleghen crom ende menichfoude, 505 also als hi huten woude hadde gheloepen om sijn bejach. Beneden der woestinen lach een berch oech ende lanc. Daer moeste Bruun sinen ganc 510 te middewaerde over maken, sal hi te Manpertus gheraken. Reynaerd hadde so menich huus, maer die casteel Manpertus dat was die beste van sinen borghen. 515

495-96 The narrator comments that Bruun will meet a bad end. In this way, after Nobel's earlier warning that Bruun must beware of the wicked fox's tricks (482-88), he heightens the suspense for his public. Rather than asking themselves whether or not the bear is going to be duped, they will have wondered how this is going to happen. Various comments by the narrator in what follows (611, 638-43, 1075-80, 2164-78, 3295) and explicit asides by Reynaert (623-26, 2034-49) serve the same function (cf. p. 22).

502-12 By describing Bruun's journey through a variety of landscapes the narrator indicates

By God, he will disgrace you if he can.'
'My Lord,' said he, 'stop these admonitions!

May God's curse be upon me
if Reynaert disgraces me in such a way that I shall not be able to repay in kind, making him look silly.

Do not worry on my account.'

Now he takes his leave and will arrive in a place where he will encounter much misfortune!

First summons

Now Bruun is on his way and he considers it unlikely in his heart and it seemed to him absurd that anyone would be so wicked 500 and that Reynaert would disgrace him. Through the darkness of a forest he made his way through a wasteland where Reynaert had made his tracks crooked and manifold, 505 each time when he had left the forest to go hunting. On the other side of the wasteland was a mountain, high and broad. Bruun had to make his way 510 across it in the middle to reach Manpertuus. Reynaert had very many residences, but the castle of Manpertuus was the best of his strongholds. 515 that the bear now enters a different world. He leaves the ordered world of the court and enters the trackless wilderness where Reynaert is lord and master. Here and elsewhere, the spatial transition also clearly implies a moral lapse (cf. pp. 23-24).

512 In the Roman de Renart, Renart's strongest fortress is sometimes called Maupertuis in addition to Malpertuis. It is likely that the scribe of the Comburg manuscript (or a predecessor) took the third letter of the word for an -n. Like Malcroys the name means 'evil hole'.

Daer trac hi in als hi in zorghen ende in noede was bevaen. Nu es Brune die beere ghegaen dat hi te Manpertuus es comen, daer hi de porte hevet vernomen 520 daer Reynaerd hute plach te gane. Doe ghinc hi voer die barbecane sitten over sinen staert ende sprac: 'Sidi in huus, Reynaert? Ic bem Bruun, des coninx bode. 525 Die hevet ghezworen bi sinen Gode, ne comdi niet ten ghedinghe ende ic hu niet voer mi bringhe, recht te nemene ende te ghevene ende in vreden voert te levene. 530 hi doet hu breken ende raden. Reynaerd, doet dat ic hu rade ende gaet met mi te hove waert.' Dit verhoerde al nu Reynaert, die voer in sine poerte lach, 535 daer hi vele te ligghene plach dor waremhede van der zonnen. Bi der tale die Bruun heeft begonnen bekenden altehant Reynaert ende tart bet te dale waert 540 in sine donckerste haghedochte. Menichfout was zijn ghedochte hoe hi vonde sulken raet daer hi Bruun, den fellen vraet, te scherne mede mochte driven 545 ende selve bi ziere eeren bliven.

The barbecane ('barbican') is a barricade which forms the outer defence of the castle. breken ende raden: to break someone's bones and subsequently place him on a wheel. 547-622 Reynaert misleads Bruun by stressing the futility of his journey, saying that he would have gone to King Nobel's court day anyway, if only he had not eaten far too much of some new kind of food. Bruun reacts immediately. On his arrival the bear had addressed Reynaert formally (Sidi in huus? 524), as befits his role as the king's messenger. But now that his craving has been aroused, he forgets his official role and changes to an informal mode of address (wat haetstu, 562). The bear is no longer master of himself, as is also clear from
